Foreword

In presenting this edition of The Mirror no attempt is made to gather all the events and activities of the year. In fact it is impossible to record the most important achievements, because these can be revealed only as the lives of this year's students unfold in actual service.

This volume is an attempt to assemble and enumerate some of the outstanding class, organization, and faculty activities, together with a number of incidents of student life which have helped season the year 1927-28 with an aroma of fun and humor.

It is hoped that these glimpses into the various activities of the high school may serve to acquaint the student bodies of future years with the student body of this year. It is hoped that this volume may help strengthen the bond between the institution and its friends. And it is sincerely hoped that it may create an ever increasing sense of loyalty, by recalling memories of high school days in the minds of those who this year bid farewell to their Alma Mater to enter the "college of hard knocks."

Biglerville High School

Alma Mater

Come all ye classmen now,
Proclaim your love untold,
Lift up your hearts and voices
For the royal Black and Gold
To Thee we pledge our loyalty
And praise Thee to the skies
Our cheers, they echo far and near
For dear old Biglerville High.

How often when on the fields of sport
We would our boys extol,
We've rent the very air in twain
With cheers for Black and Gold
In soccer, track and basket ball
In baseball we rely,
The victory must be won today
For dear old Biglerville High.

CHORUS:

Rah, Rah, dear old Biglerville
Rah, for the Black and the Gold
Rah, Rah, Rah,
Rah, for the Black and the Gold.

School History

A little schoolhouse red
Stood in little Middletown,
The town grew until, 'tis said
It had gained much renown.

This schoolhouse was small
Where knowledge the youth acquired,
So 'twas decided by all
That a new building was required.

The new schoolhouse was also red,
But much larger than the one before,
The pupils were with knowledge fed
They kept learning more and more.

As did the school, the town progressed
And it soon changed it's name,
'Twas now called Biglerville,
After a man of historical fame.

In the eighteen hundred ninety-fifth year
A two room school was erected,
And to teach at our Alma Mater dear,
Two instructors were elected.

Again more room was the need,
And this need soon was seen,
The building was erected with much speed,
And completed in nineteen hundred seventeen.

This was a realization of a dream,
A high school now we have,
With seven teachers worthy of esteem,
And a chance for every lass and lad.

In soccer and basket ball,
And every other game,
We've won awards, not small;
And now we have our fame.

"Onward and Upward," will we go,
In studies or in sport
We'll try to make our colors glow
In things of every sort.

We love you dear old black and gold,
To us you are most dear,
You, in our hearts we'll ever hold,
Through every day of every year.

Senior Class History

Part I

The year of 1925 introduced a new class to Biglerville High School. And what a class! A class that did not know so much but a class that was very eager to learn. We were somewhat timid at first but we soon began to feel more at home in the school. We elected officers in the beginning and later we had a class which did much in creating a better relation of friendship between the members of the class. The year was filled with hard knocks, but we kept going onward and upward toward our goal.

Part II

Well experienced and accustomed to high school life, we entered our second year with a stronger determination than ever to make a success. The upperclassmen respected our rights—and why shouldn't they? Members of our class were represented in all the activities of the school.

Part III

As we entered the portals of Biglerville High School the third year, we realized we were upper classmen, and tried our best to make the school a success, as the ones had done who had gone before. With this end in view, we went right through. April found us entertaining the Seniors at a banquet, at Piney Mt. Inn. Almost every member of both classes were present. The success of this event showed us capable of taking our place as seniors. So we continued the year with that goal before us.

Part IV

The Senior year was our busiest year in Biglerville High School. We, at once, elected our officers and began to compose our year book, "The Mirror". Because of the fact that we were the most experienced among the students we felt it our duty to lead in the School activities. Time kept passing on and in April we gave our class play, which was a great success. Next came graduation with its joys and happiness, yet we have to stop and think and wonder if we have taken advantage of the opportunities that have come our way. So with a regret, we leave B-ville High.

"A Full House"

The play, "A Full House," was the one chosen for the annual Senior play, given April 12, 1928. After many strenuous rehearsals under the able direction of Miss Weaver, the cast finally succeeded in presenting the play almost as well as professionals. The auditorium was filled to capacity showing that the art of drama can be highly recommended for B. H. S.

Hallowe'en Party

Thanks to "Blocher!" This is the sentiment of the class of '28 toward the Hallowe'en party October 28.

About eight o'clock after all the members of the Blocher home had been transformed by some hand of magic a steady arrival of witches and other fantastical personages soon filled the home. A ghostly quiet, broken only by the rattling of "Tommy" Yost's pumpkin and the squeaks called forth by the green snake, pervaded the company. Since it is quite impossible for grim ghosts and dainty fairies to enjoy each other's company a process of unmasking followed, which revealed the company to be composed of members of the senior class, faculty and their friends.

Games, music, and refreshments followed. When the hands of the clock pointed to twelve the group of tired but happy revelers retired to their homes to dream of cider lakes at the foot of gingerbread mountains.

"The Goose Hangs High"

"The Goose Hangs High" is a truly American comedy by Lewis Beach and one of the outstanding New York successes of the past and current seasons.

This play was given by the Swarthmore Chautauqua for the benefit of the Senior Class February 4th.

JUNIORS

Junior Class History

In the month of September nineteen-hundred and twenty-five, forty-one lads and lasses entered the "Palace of Learning", known as Biglerville High School. We were always pointed out and looked upon by the upper classmen as the "Freshies." We did not mind this for we realized that in all things we had to begin at the lowest step of the ladder.

In a few months we were accustomed to our new surroundings and by the end of school we were sorry to part with dear old "Biglerville High."

The next school year came, we were Sophomores, although, not upperclassmen we were still not the lowest class in the High School.

During our Sophomore year many of the members of the class helped to win honors for the school. On the basket ball floor, on the baseball and soccer fields many of the class of twenty-nine were seen.

Another school year approaches. We are now in that desired position, we are upperclassmen. We are still inexperienced enough to associate with the lower classmen, and have enough swelled head to associate with the Seniors.

The worthy president of our class has been elected to be managed of the Boys' Basket Ball Team. We are sure that he will prove to be successful and be a credit to our class.

The Junior class has taken their stand among the rest when giving chapel programs. In this we have progressed and have found talent both literary and also musical.

During our Junior year many of the members of our class have bravely borne the black and gold.

We have tried to follow our motto, "Strive for Success". We have strived to bring success not only to ourselves and our class but also to our school.

May our class colors, jade, green and silver, ever be respected by all, may we forever love the black and gold, and may we prove to be worthy of our school.

SOPHOMORES

Sophomore Class History

Prologue

Before this palace of learning stands a group of people numbering forty. This band of green, frightened looking persons began to question and envy the upper-classmen who looked so dignified and noble in their eyes.

Act I

Our class of '30, at that time, September, nineteen twenty-six, was being introduced to B. H. S. The pep and enthusiasm to accomplish something will long be remembered.

That was the way we started to climb upward toward the goal of achievement. The curtains dropped.

Act II

History, it is said, repeats itself, so it is with the class of '30. The key of knowledge, welded by our freshman band is being turned again, the portals swing open again, and we enter upon the stage once more, this time the actor is a Sophomore. We do not know what awaits us but we go forward bravely.

The main event of the season thus far, for us was the Hallo'een party, which was a "howling" success. This was an evening of fun for all.

Many of our boys and girls are going out for basketball this year. We wish them much success. Our class was well represented on the soccer field this fall. The Soph boys scored quite a hit while playing on the field.

We are now presenting our finale for the Sophomore year. We owe much credit to the teachers for our prosperous year. As our Junior year approaches, we find ourselves peering courageously into the unknown future. Could we but reach our fates—who knows?

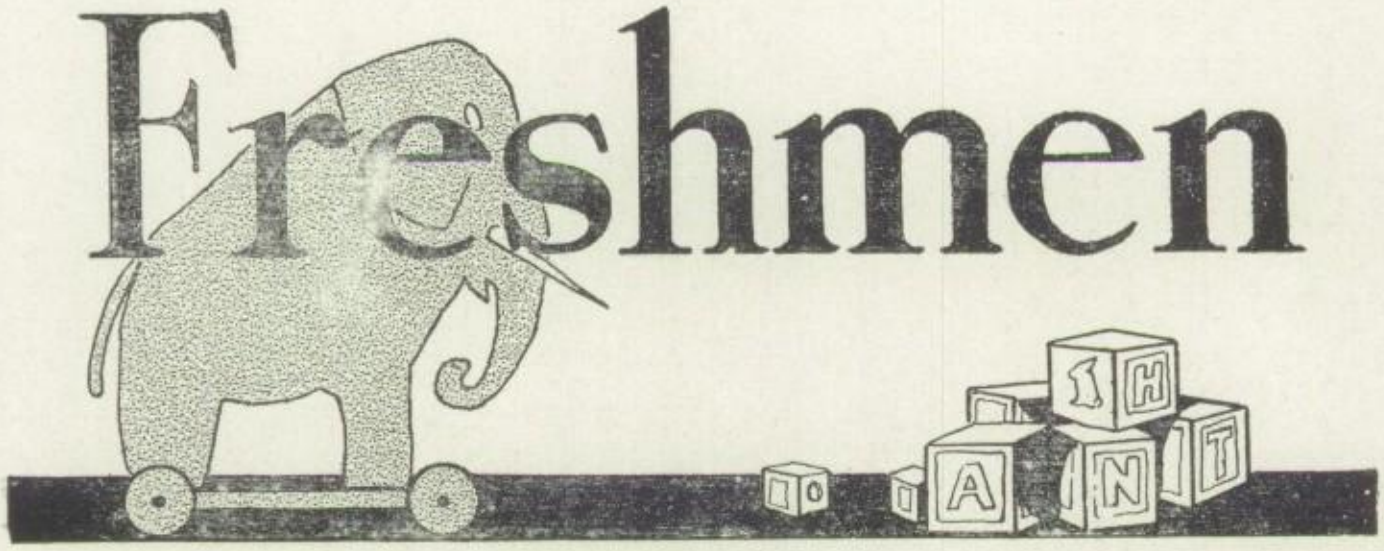
Freshmen



Freshman Class

Green Freshies! That is what they call us, but we are not as green as we look. We entered B. H. S. with a fear that made us shake in our shoes. At the beginning we found ourselves constantly lost in one room or another. As days passed on we could locate ourselves where our classes were being held. The upper classmen were just in calling us "Green" at the beginning of the term, but now we are as all the other classmen.

Success is our goal, and each member is trying to do his or her best to reach this goal. We realize that there are many roads to take, but only one will bring us to the place where we can enter the world to begin that great task which is before us. We must travel the road three more long years; but come to think of it, time will fly so fast that we will be out in the world finding our own way before we are aware of it.

We hope that we may, in the future make our old Alma Mater proud of every member of the class of '32.

Botany

There should be no monotony
In studying your botany;
  It helps to train
  And spur the brain
Unless you haven't gotany.

It teaches you, does botany
To know the plants and spotany,
  And learn just why
  They live or die
In case you plant or potany.

You learn, from reading botany
Of wooly plants and cottony
  That grow on earth
  And what they're worth
And why some spots have notany.

You sketch the plants, in botany,
You learn to chart and plotany
  Like corn, or oats,
  You jot down notes
If you know how to jotany.

Your time, if you'll allotany
Will teach you how and whatany
  Old plant or tree
  Can do or be,
And that's the use of botany.

MUSIC

The Glee Club

In this school year, under the able leadership of our music instructor, Mr. Yost, with Miss Kadel at the piano, the glee club has been as much a success as ever before. Some new music has been added and the members have worked diligently to produce a glee club which would excel any heretofore. They are well thought of and are always well appreciated wherever they may sing.

The Male Quartet

Well, here we are folks! This isn't the first time you have seen us, because we sang at many public performances this year.

Our assets are:

Earl Crum, our worthy and capable first tenor; without Earl, where would we be? Next in line comes John Hertzog, a wizard when it comes to singing second tenor. With John among us we really look as though we mean business, for he is the best looking among us. Our most honorable Dale Roth with his first bass can make anybody sit up and take notice, for he is a remarkable singer and ought to please anybody's ear by his vocal strains. And our last asset is Stanley Tyson with his raucous second bass. We don't know why but when "Stan." sings a solo everybody laughs. Whether it's his ability, or, otherwise we are unable to determine.

Our liabilities are: NONE!

Mr. Yost deserves the credit for keeping our list of liabilities so small. His patience and hard work in training us has been and should be duly appreciated.

Girl's Basketball

With almost an entirely new team to work out, Coach Stock succeeded in working out an A number one team. Although these fair maidens opened the season by losing their first game, they soon broke away from this first bit of bad luck, and sailed through the season with only six defeats. This may seem high, but they had an exceptionally hard schedule.

Boy's Basketball

The boy's basketball team of B. H. S. have cleared a fairly good record considering some of the strong teams, from larger High Schools, with which they played. Although they came down in defeat a number of times, these lads fought hard and played fair and square games; thanks to their worthy coach, L. V. Stock.

Baseball

On the first day of April, Coach Yost sent out a draft for a little army of recruits to make up the firing and batting squad for the year of 1927. With many new recruits Coach Yost worked out a first class squad. The season opened with a bang losing the first game. Our battery was weak having only Routsong in the box, when the "Unknown" Sheets stepped in the box, a second "Eddie" Plank. We finished the season breaking even, having a good record.

JOKES

Editors' "School Life Address"

One-half score and seven years ago our forerunners brought forth in this Mirror a joke department, conceived in nonsense and dedicated to the proposition that all students are created comical. Now we are engaged in the great thinkless task of testing whether that department, or any department, so conceived and so dedicated can raise a grin. You are now at the first page of that department. You have come to laugh at the bone-heads of the meagre-minded, and the dumbdoings and simple saying of those who did such actions that this department might live. It is altogether natural and inevitable that you should act thus. But in the truest sense we cannot fully print, we cannot do justice to your simple deeds. The queer beings, Freshmen to Faculty, who performed here, have honestly done it far above our poor power to put it in words. You readers will little note nor long remember what we say here but you can never forget what we did here. It is for us, the comic editors, to thank you here for the numberless breaks which you who talked here have thus far so innocently exposed. It is further for us to explain our feelings in editing this department before you—that we take increased pleasure in disclosing your queer words and conduct to the rest of your irresponsible friends—that we here highly resolve that your foolish actions shall not have been done in vain—that the editors of this section shall print the whole truth of the humorous conditions—so that this department of the students, by the students and for the students might provoke merriment from its readers.—D. C. Ed.

Getting out a daily paper is no picnic,
If we print jokes, folks say we are silly;
If we don't, they say we are too serious;
If we publish original stuff, they say we lack variety;
If we clip from other papers, they say we are too lazy to write;
If we stay in the office, we ought to be out hunting up news;
If we hunt up news, we are not tending to business in the office;
If we wear old clothes, we're stingy,
If we wear new ones, they're not paid for;
Like as not, some one will say we swiped this article
From another newspaper. We did.

Erma Fair walked into a clothing store and said, "I would like to see a waist to fit me."

Clerk: "So would I."

Mr. Bucher: "When George Washington was your age he was a surveyor."

Robert: "And when he was your age he was President."

"Nothing could be sadder than a man without a country," said Mr. Yost.

"Except a country without a man," replied Catherine Straus-baugh.

Stanley Tyson: "Miss Weaver, do you know why the poet is the funniest man in the world?"

Miss Weaver: "No, why is he?"

Stanley: "Because his tale comes out of his head."

Mrs. Morrison: "Richard, you should never do anything which you would not want the whole world to see."

Richard: "Whee! I won't hafta take any more baths."

Byron Kadel: "Last night I dreamed I was married to the most beautiful girl in the world."

June Gindlesperger: "Oh! were we happy?"

"Is there any good shooting around here, son?" asked a city man, out in the country with a gun.

"Well no," said Raymond Beamer, "no deer, or rabbits, or birds, or anything like that, but Mr. Raffensperger is taking a walk just over the hill."

Mr. Stock: "John, your brain is just like new."
John Hertzog: "What makes you think so?"
Mr. Stock: "Never been used."

Cop: "Hey, you, why don't youse look where yer goin'?"
Ruby: "Well, you see officer, this is the first time I've driven from the front seat."

Simp: "Noise in my head keeps me awake."
Sap: "That's impossible."
Simp: "How's that?"
Sap: "You can't transmit sound through a vacuum."

Alice: "And they are keeping their engagement a secret, aren't they?"
Pauline: "Well, that's what they are telling everybody."

Maybelle is two-thirds married to Tom."
"Really?"
"Yes, she is willing and the preacher is willing."

Chester Tyson: "Say, do you know what becomes of the holes in doughnuts?"
Richard Slaybaugh: "No, what?"
Chester: "They use 'em to stuff macaroni."

Curtis Bucher: "Caroline, I can't eat a square meal anymore."
Mrs. Bucher: "Why not?"
Curtis: "Because the corners hurt my stomach."

William Dentler: "Marie won't speak to me since I took her horseback riding."
Wendell Shank: "Perhaps she's sore about something."

Gladys: "Are you sure that Carl loves you, and you alone?"
Reatha: "Oh yes, more than at any other time."

Grace Wenk: "A penny for your thoughts."
Stanley Tyson: "Darn it just my luck, not to be thinkin'."

Adeline Brown: "Can you keep a secret?"
Edith Deardorff: "I'll tell the world."

Maybelle Bucher: "Say, Gladys, what is the height of agony?"
Gladys Blocher: "Walking ten miles with a new pair of shoes on."

Leroy Lady: "I want a make-up-box."
Clerk: "A make-up-box? We don't keep cosmetics."
Lady: "It's a box of candy I want, I'm two hours late for a date."

Absence makes the heart grow fonder,
Leastwise, that's what people say;
That's why we love all our teachers,
On days they stay away.

George Dick: "Where do they keep the extra bases?"
Mr. Yost: "Why?"
George: "Well, that man just stole third base."

Luther Lobaugh: "You are the breath of life to me."
Mildred Beamer: "Have you ever held your breath?"

Mr. Raffensperger: "Now, Earl, what are you doing, learning something?"
Earl Crum: "No sir, I'm listening to you."

Reatha had a wad of gum,
She chewed it long and slow;
And every where that Reatha went,
The gum was sure to go.
(Intermission)
She carried the wad to class one day,
Which was against the rule;
Miss Bowersox took the gum away,
And chewed it after school.

Clarence Denlinger: "Dear, the first time you contradict me I'm going to kiss you."
Helen Slaybaugh: "You are not!"

Someone asked Lester Bucher where he was so late last night.
Lester replied: "Oh, Ethel's mother doesn't allow her to stay up very late alone so I had to stay there with her."

John Hertzog: "Yum-Yum, give me a cigarette."
Alston Peters: "Ah, I have only one."
Hertzog: "Well, that's all I want."

Mr. Enck (to photographer): "Have I the pleasant expression you require?"
Photographer: "Perfectly sir."
Mr. Enck: "Then shoot quick! It hurts my face."

Thurston Bucher: "Does my mustache look becoming?"
Anita Rouzer: "It may be coming but I can't see it."

Several months ago, Gladys Blocher was paying her annual visit to the insane asylum at Harrisburg. As she was strolling around through the building, one of the patients suddendly said, "Hello Miss, are you a new one?"

Miss Weaver: "Do you know the difference between vision and sight?"
George Routsong: "No, I don't."
Miss Weaver: "To-night you are a vision, but to-morrow morning you'll be a sight."

"So you met Marion today?"
"Yes, I hadn't seen her for ten years."
"Has she kept her girlish figure?"
"Kept it? She's doubled it."

She: "Is my nose shiny?"
He: "No, but your right knee is."

Dorothy: "Has anyone remarked on the way you handled your car?"
Anita: "One man did, but he didn't say much."
Dorothy: "What did he say?"
Anita: "Ten dollars and costs."

Clair Lauver: "Will you kiss me?"
Miss Kadel: "Isn't that just like a man, always trying to shift the responsibility."

Bruce Thomas: "Did you ever take chloroform?"
Morgan B.: "No, who teaches it?"

According to Samuel Noel, Love is like an abscess—forms in the heart and breaks in the pocket-book.

Dorothy Burtner: "Love is blind."
John Rice: "Yes, but the neighbors aren't, pull down the blinds."

Mr. Stock (explaining a geometry question): "Now look closely at the board and I will run through it quickly."

Rebecca Sachs: "Gee! I wish eggs had gravy."

Mr. Yost: "When did the revival of learning begin?"
Earl McCans: "Just before exams."

Miss Weaver: "Helen, take that gum out of your mouth and throw it in the waste basket."

ORGANIZATIONS

Modern Soliloquy

To take the girls, or not to take them; that's the question.
Whether 'tis nobler in the mind to suffer
The slights and slanders of outraged women,
Or to shell out our hard earned cash,
And by motoring take them, to go alone,
And by ourselves, to know we're rid
The thousand natural whims
That girls are heir to. 'Tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To go, alone.
Alone? perchance to suffer scorn. Ay, there's the rub;
For in that lonely ride what thots may come,
When we have shuffied off those artful girls,
Must give pause. These are the thoughts
That make calamity of so long a trip.
For who would bear the wiles and arts of girls,
The purse's loss, the proud maid's hauteur,
The pangs of despised love, B. H. S. delays,
The catering to whims and the spurns
The patient man from the ungrateful takes,
When he himself might peaceful exit make
With his own kind? Who would carpets beat,
To groan and sweat to earn a sundae's price,
But that the dread of social ostracism,
The high school stamp from which
No fellow recovers, weakens the will
And makes us rather bear the trials we have,
Than fly to others that we know are worse?
Thus custom does make cowards of us all;
And yet the longing to be free
Doth conquer all our fears of scorn,
And for this once, we unencumbered go
(With all regards for ladies' stares awry)
A merry bunch of boobs to see the play.

Parent-Teachers' Association

President .....Mr. R. E. Underwood
Vice President .....Mrs. A. E. Rice
Secretary .....Mrs. Blaine Walter
Treasurer .....Mr. J. D. Miller

The association accomplished a great deal this year by its meetings and great interest which the parents took in these meetings. The association bought books for the grades and also are endeavoring to improve the playground for the grade building. We are sure the parents have taken a greater interest in the schools since they have visited the various classes and have seen the progress of the pupils and the ingenuity of the teachers.

Subscription Campaign

The subscription campaign was arranged differently this year. The school was divided into three separate groups each one having a leader. Gladys Blocher, leader of "Wild Cats," Helen Baker, leader of "Bear Cats," Earl Crum, leader of "Sea Dogs." Business Manager, Marion Miller. A total of 189 subscriptions for "The Ladies' Home Journal," "Saturday Evening Post," and "Country Gentleman" were received, making a profit for the school treasury.

Student Council

"Experience is the best teacher." Experience in government is the best teacher for citizenship and the training is not acquired from books. Experience in government begins in some kind of a lawmaking body as the Student Council.

The functions of the Council are to debate and take action on any school problems that may arise. It does not execute affairs as it sees fit but on the contrary as the majority of the student body sees fit.

The following officers compose the 1927-28 Student Council:

E. A. T. Club

Two years ago to date there entered into the humdrum of B. H. S. another of those secret and mysterious organizations. Dedicated to the proposition that all should have a rushing, rousing, rashing good time. The members braved the stormy seiges, withstood the trying hours and won; and now that we are nearing the time when we must part, we are wondering how long it will afterwards endure. The underclassmen little know, nor cease to wonder what it is all about, and can never forget our spirit of never faltering love for one another. It was for our cause that we have the last full measure of earnest devotion, and highly resolved that our noble members should not be forgotten, and that this great organization should forever maintain its lofty and noble ideals 'till the last.

P. P. G. Club

Have you heard of the wonderful P. P. G.'s
That was formed in such a logical way
It lasted four years to a day
And then, of a sudden, it—ah but stay,
I'll tell you what happened without delay
Scaring the teachers into fits.
Frightening people out of their wits—
Have you ever heard of that, I say?

In the first two years, twenty-four and five
The years we were all alive.
We buckled to our tasks as though they were the last
We went straight through like a dash.
And at the end of school we looked back and thought
That all our plans for the future had been wrought.

In nineteen twenty-six we lost several members of our list
But we called the roll and all seemed bliss,
Because we decided to rule together by our fists.
Then one day we left the hall
And decided not to return until next fall.

In nineteen twenty-seven our members were a few over eleven
We were upperclassmen when we came to school
And we felt like dignified fools.
With the Senior "Firm" we had several duels
But were still unable to decide who should rule.
But at last we decided to compromise
And there after things just harmonized.

In nineteen hundred twenty-eight
For this we know was the year of our fate.
We entered old B. H. S. with a smile
And beat the other classes by a mile.
We have set standards of a very high type
And if the other classes follow, they'll be just right.
Teachers have tried to rule us but all in vain
We stood by our motto and won our fame.

Mrs. Temple's Telegram

The following students composed the cast in the play "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," given December 9, 1927. Marion Miller, as Mrs. Temple, the leading lady, proved the harmful effects of being in a constant temper by losing her voice three days before the final night. This threatened calamity cast a gloom over the entire community; while Miss Weaver, directress, was threatened with a nervous breakdown. Marion, however, responding to much steaming and soothsaying, came out on the final night and kept her poise and attitude of outraged dignity admirably throughout the play.

Robert Bucher, as Mr. Temple, did his "darndest" to allay his wife's suspicions by telling the whole truth and nothing but the truth; failing miserably, he resorted to "out and out whoppers" in which he was ably assisted by his friend Mr. Fuller.

Leroy Lady, as Mr. Fuller, displayed real ingenuity in his methods of handling unexpected developments. We are concerned for Leroy's future veracity.

Edith Fohl took the part of Mrs. Fuller, giving a demonstration of an affectionate and persistent wife. Young men will please take notice.

Gladys Blocher, playing the part of Dorothy, the sweetheart of Captain Sharpe, behaved with becoming shyness in his presence, and woman like developed a strong determination in his favor during his absence. Gladys displayed noticeable signs of nervousness in anticipating her betrothal kiss before the second act. Miss Weaver's fierce, "Don't you be afraid! Play up to him!" and the Captain's appealing look effectively steadied Gladys. She came out an engaged young lady.

The part of Captain Sharpe was played by Stanley Tyson, who proved the astute lover bound to win by fair means or foul. Stanley began to feel weak in the knees as the time approached to ask the all important question. Mr. Yost and Miss Weaver with admirable foresight averted a pale proposal by a liberal application of rouge.

Floyd Sell, as Mr. Brown, played the combination of the love-sick swain and the hen-pecked husband with fervor and trepidation.

Hazel Rebert was Mrs. Brown, the strong-armed woman, who quelled her husband by a mere glance of her eye. Young men beware!

Thurston Bucher, as Wigson, the butler, portrayed the individual with a one-track mind; only once did his formula for all suggestions fail him—when his master, exasperated beyond all endurance, invited him to go to—well,—it wasn't Florida.

The writer is not in position to state positively the "night after" effects on all the members of the cast. But we strongly suspect Stanley, in his nervousness practiced kissing the bed post. He suffered a rude awakening. Gladys, we imagine, might have been seen dutifully embracing her pillow. It is a foregone conclusion that Leroy spent the night thinking of fresh blandishments to strengthen the crumbling "whoppers." Robert, we are sure, shook with terror, reiterating, "Mr. John Brown-Pickleton on the Thames," till his mother rapped on the wall to quell the disturbance.

Thurston, we feel convinced, talked in his sleep, on the subject of, "Just what he was going to do." Floyd naturally would imagine himself fading away under his wife's fond gaze, or offering his new lady love a gorgeous bouquet of flowers. As for Hazel, she was busy impressing her husband, that was, with the fact that he was "Marthaless." Edith could well be imagined roving over her bed in an imaginary ferris wheel in search of her field glasses.

Earl Crum, we are told on good authority, disturbed the neighbors selling tickets in his sleep. While Bill Dentler and Floyd Sell, unfortunate boys, defaced the walls of their bedrooms painting scenery.

As for Marion Miller, we KNOW she berated her bed-fellow, sharply slapped her face, called her a "brazen tongued, doll-faced thing," and dared her ever to speak to her again.

However, despite these wild somnambulistic antics, the play was a howling success. It was unanimously voted the best ever given by the Biglerville High School. The credit is handed Miss Jessica Weaver, under whose able direction the play was staged.

Respectfully submitted by

THE AUDIENCE.

Community Day

Community Day in Biglerville High School is always a big event. It is a day of opportunity for the parents to see the progress of the pupils and the interest which they take in their activities. By the aid of several patrons of the school and the various committees appointed, dinner was served to a large crowd in the community hall. The regular classes were held during the morning period; in the afternoon there were field and track events, a fore runner for May Day in Gettysburg. In the evening a very interesting Parent-Teachers' Meeting was held.

Operetta

In the spring of '27, the glee club presented the operetta "In Ole' Louisianna." The operetta had a larger attendance than any dramatic presentation given in Biglerville. The audience was well pleased with the effecitve rendition of the operetta.

The success of the operetta was due chiefly to the willingness of our music instructor, Mr. Yost, to put forth every effort in getting the final touches of the play down to the last minute degree of perfection. We all realize and appreciate the work it took for the glee club, under the supervision of Mr. Yost, to make it as successful as it could possibly be. Miss Larson assisted ably by playing the piano.

The plot of the play dealt with Rose Farley, played by Edith Fohl, and Dick St. John, whose character was represented by Leroy Lady. These two individuals played the leading roles. Simon Scudder, enacted by Stanley Tyson, tried to win Rose from Dick by proving that Rose had negro blood in her veins. His companions in crime, Holly Timms and Jack Martin, played by Charles Boyer and John Gettier respectively, tried to prove by the use of a forged paper that Rose was an octoroon.

It was the timely arrival of Pilot Robert Farley, Rose's father by adoption, played by Hiram Trostle, that caused the frustration of Scudder's plan of abduction. Rose's parentage was disclosed by her grandfather, Marquies de La Tour, played by Dale Weaver, who came to the United States to learn of his granddaughter's location. Glenn Morrison played the part of the county sheriff very creditably.

The loyal servants of the house, Old Ned and Judy were personified by Dale Crum and Cora Boyer.

Another pretty plot woven into the drama was a love story; the parts of the lovers being Martha St. John, sister of Dick, and Monty Gray, played by Nora Bream and Earl Crum respectively.

Every person who participated in the operetta carried his or her part very capably.

The soloists were Dale Crum, Leroy Lady and Hiram Trostle.

ALUMNI

The Alumni Association

The time has secretly sped on and another year's high school graduating class has been added to the already long list of Alumni. We trust that we are stepping out into a world that can offer the cheerfulness and happiness we have experienced in our past four years at the Biglerville High School.

It will be noticed that some of the occupations have not been learned of the list below. This absence is accounted for in that there was no possible way of learning the address of the individual; also, some of the individuals who left the school have not written to us and in this way they have not afforded us a way for learning the occupation thereof.

Poem of Appreciation

You have read this section,
From beginning to end.
And I hope, my lovely reader,
That I still can call you friend.

If you think these jokes are pointless,
Please don't criticize and whine,
Blame it on the board of censors,
For it was no fault of mine.

You good natured ones I thank you,
For your boneheads, breaks and such.
'Cause in getting out these columns
You have helped me, O so much.

If, perhaps, I've peeved some others,
Let me tell you on the side,
I was joking, will it help you?
When I tell you that I (lied)* fabricated.
*Censored.
